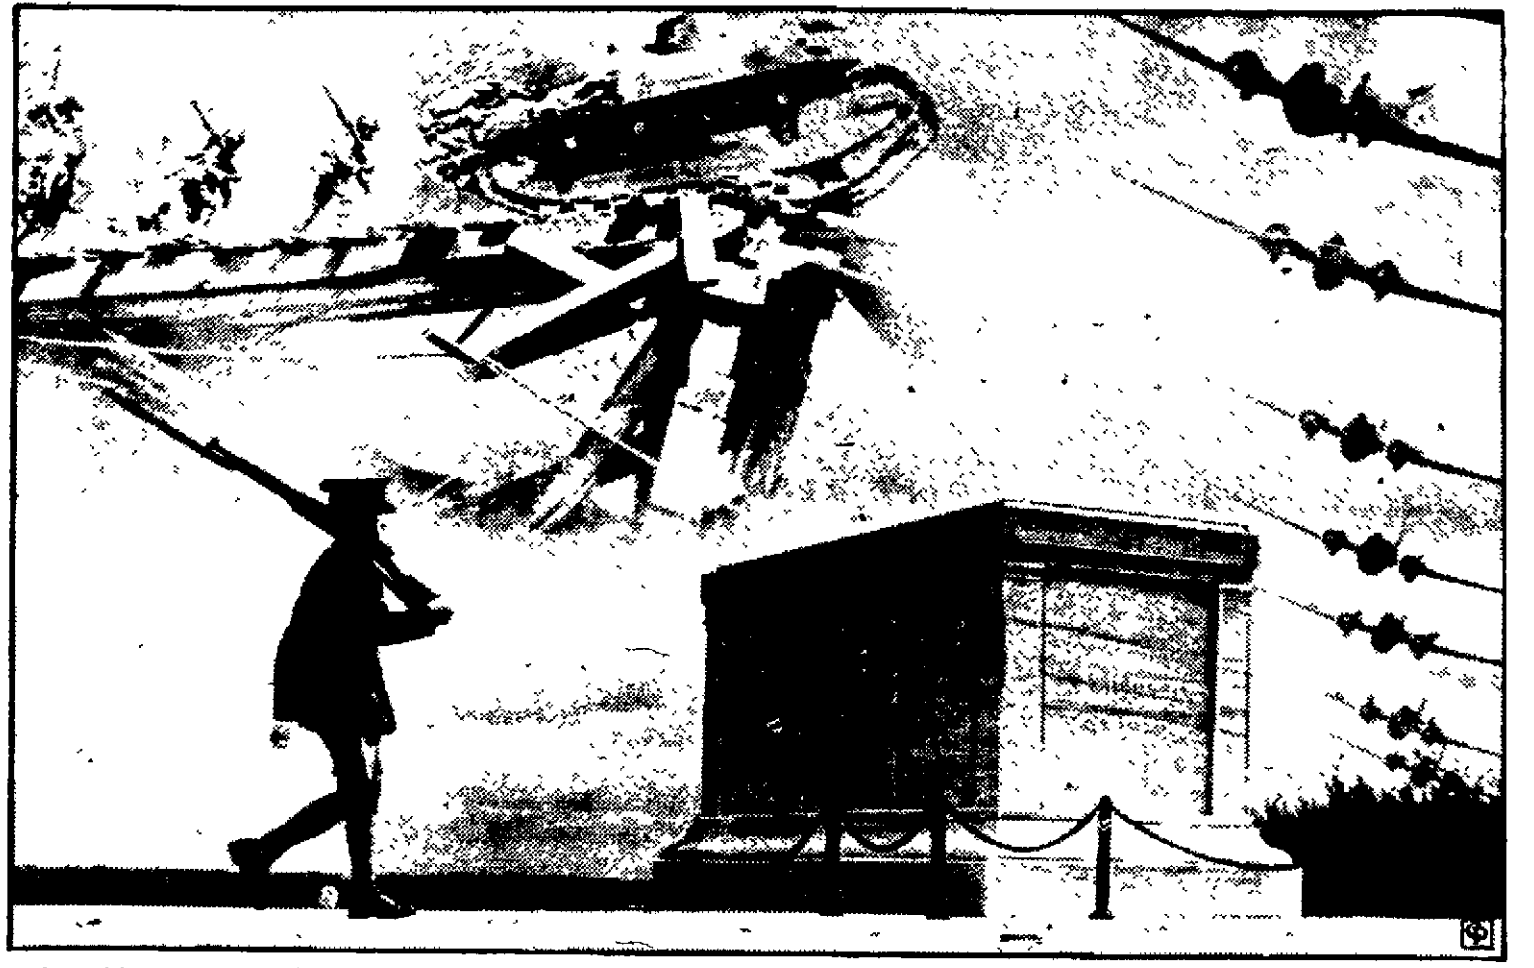
In the Clouds Over Arlington



There is nothing new about death
Nor new perceptions of decay.
Death's as ancient as the first breath
Of an amoeba rocked by sway
Of almost shoreless cosmic seas.
By time honored custom today
Man pays tribute to all of these
The khaki clad—the blue and gray,
Touched by the hand of one of four
By the grimmest of horsemen four.
Now stand we here remembering
The men who lie beneath the grass
As cell by cell dismembering
The empty husks long since did pass
From what we all once knew as men
Into the elements and dust.
And all remains for tribute
On which honors and wreaths we thrust
Is memory of an idea
Old memories of an idea.
Behold a man was born and grew
Fair-haired and laughing with the sun
To what purpose one never knew
For ere his gallant youth was done
He left the quiet country lane
And soon upon a sodden field
Found himself caught in deadly rain
Of whining steel that brooked no shield
He fell as many other did.
Mangled like hosts of other did.
Man interrupts the natural laws
Some in total he quite denies
And some for which he knows the cause,
With shibboleths and other ties,
Forces to creep at slower pace,
While others like a stallion bold
He burns with hot spurs of the race
Hastening the young into the old.
We say they have not died in vain.
Neither would they have lived in vain

STRIKE PEACE MOVES START

Quiet Prevails On Goodyear Picket Lines; Union Calls Mass Meeting.

(By Associated Press)

AKRON—Conferees were summoned today to shape a key to peace in riot-provoking strike troubles at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, while CIO United Rubber Workers rallied for a mass meeting to protest police tactics.

James P. Miller, national labor relations board regional director, announced a truce under which all but a dozen policemen withdrew from the two-mile area where police and unionists clashed early Friday, injuring 80 or more persons.

The company agreed work would not be resumed before 6 a. m. Tuesday. Both sides were willing to sit down at a conference table and discuss what union leaders termed "accumulated grievances," Miller said. Renewed picketing was permitted.

Protest Police Acts.

Meanwhile, Frank Grillo, rubber workers' official, announced a mass meeting would be held (at 2 p. m.) to protest the "cold-blooded

WAITS REACTION

Roosevelt Resting At Hyde Park After Tax Speech.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(INS)—President Roosevelt swung up to his family estate on the Hudson river today to await public reaction to his demand that federal, state and local taxes be revised next year.

The president returned to his mother's Hyde Park, N. Y., home for the Memorial day week-end after having blazed what observers considered another major issue for Democratic aspirants to congress in the coming election.

From the Arthurdale, W. Va., subsistence homestead project the president yesterday advised the nation by radio that he was letting the new $5,330,000,000 tax bill become law with such distinct misgivings he could not find it possible to affix an approving signature.

CINCY CO-ED SLUGGED

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Miss Irene Brandau, 19, University of Cincinnati co-ed, was recovering at her home today from injuries received, she said, when a man slugged her with a blackjack in McKicken hall on the campus.

3 G. A. R. Vets to Head Memorial Day Parade

Half of City's Survivors of Once Great Army To Ride in Procession Monday As Mansfield Pays Homage to War Dead.

A few aged survivors of a once great army will assemble again Monday as Mansfield pays homage to its war dead.

These veterans of one of America's major conflicts—remnants of the Grand Army of the Republic, will have the place of honor as the city's Memorial day parade moves to Mansfield cemetery.

Age no longer will permit them to march on foot as they did on this day so many times in past years. They will ride in a special car at the head of the parade if weather conditions are favorable.

As a special tribute to these men who carried the country's colors three quarters of a century ago, parade officials have announced that their automobile will be the only one to pass through the open ranks of the procession as the marchers arrive at the cemetery for the formal Memorial day program.

98-Year-Old Vet to Ride.

The three G. A. R. representatives who plan to take part in Monday's parade are George H. Fisher, 94, commander of McLaughlin post, Christopher Frye, 98, Mansfield's oldest veteran, and William R. Tingley, 94, who has lived here practically all his life.

Two of the city's three other remaining G. A. R. veterans, Thomas Shocker, 90, and Kepton Ozier, 94, are bedfast. The sixth G. A. R. survivor is William Hammett, 93.

Masonic Lodge To Confer A Very 'Early' Degree.

It's only a routine lodge meeting when a Masonic group confers the third degree.

But when it confers the third degree at 3 a. m. (that's right—a. m.—in the morning) that's news.

That's what Venus lodge, is going to do Memorial day—and to keep you from getting mixed up, that means at three o'clock Monday morning. The degree will be conferred on one candidate.

There'll be two other unusual features about the ceremony. A fellow craft team of Cleveland policemen will take part in the ceremony, and a ham and egg breakfast will bring the event to a close.

Rebel Cedillo Slips Through Mexican Government's 'Trap'

(By International News Service)

MEXICO CITY—Mexico's government reluctantly admitted today that it had Rebel General Saturnino Cedillo almost within its clutches—only to let him slip through.

Nevertheless, it appeared virtually certain that the revolt started by Cedillo in the state of San Luis Potosi against the regime of President Lazaro Cardenas has virtually collapsed.

Authorities said the round-faced rebel leader hopped aboard a plane—apparently in a futile attempt to escape to the United States—when he was surprised at his headquarters by federal cavalrymen.

Then began an exciting chase reminiscent of the old wild west days in the United States, except that airplanes were used in place of horses.

Twelve federal warplanes set out in pursuit of the plane carrying Cedillo and a group of rebel airmen.

It was not long, however, before Cedillo's plane was forced down when it ran out of fuel. But the wily fighter, who once rode with Pancho Villa slipped through a cordon of federal troops and seemingly disappeared into thin air.

Government officials admitted Cedillo and an unspecified number of his airmen had evaded government forces in the Potosi hills near Estansuela Penasco, where he was forced to land after his hurried departure from El Zenzontle where the cavalry detachment discovered his hideout.

MAIL CARRIER CITED BY JURY

Veteran Postman Arrested On Charge Of Embezzling From Bowling League.

Accused of embezzling $417 in Commercial C bowling league funds, David R. Buell, 41, of 28 Ruth avenue, a postal employe in Mansfield for 18 years, was arrested at noon today on a secret indictment returned yesterday by the county grand jury.

Buell, former secretary-treasurer of the bowling league, provided the $1,500 bond fixed by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston and was freed until his arraignment Tuesday morning.

Arrested By Deputy.

Buell was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman after he returned from his mail route. He is a letter carrier in the western section of the city.

Action against Buell was started following a recent meeting of the bowling league officers, who said the funds had been misappropriated over a period of nearly a year. Buell was replaced as secretary-treasurer of the league three months ago by Charles Gimbel, jr.

Funds involved in the alleged embezzlement were paid in as entry fees and prize money by the 12 bowling teams in the league, according to County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott. The league has 60 members.

Conviction on an embezzlement count carries a one to 10-year penitentiary sentence, Marriott said.

Part of the missing funds was to have provided an entertainment for league members at the end of the bowling season, officers said. They added that Buell had been given an opportunity to make up the deficit to avoid prosecution but that he had failed to comply with their request.

RIDES IN CAR, HIT BY BULLET

Stray Shot Injures Passenger Slightly, Police Report.

Elias S. Smith, 2 Arnold avenue, yesterday was treated by a physician for a slight abrasion on the leg yesterday when a spent bullet fired by an unidentified person crashed through the window of the car in which he was riding.

Police said Smith was struck by the slug that came through the window while he was riding with John Northrup, rear of 81 Buckingham street, on Park avenue west near South Weldon avenue.

They said that the bullet, a 22 caliber slug had apparently been fired from a gun some distance away, probably by some youths playing.

Tanker Ablaze, Empty Lifeboats Picked Up By Steamer.

LONDON —(INS)— A maritime tragedy was revealed today in a Reuter dispatch from Marseilles reporting the Panama tanker Nausicaa had been sighted in flames 20 miles south of Minorca in the Balearic islands.

The Italian steamer Africana was reported to have picked up two empty lifeboats from the Nausicaa. There was no sign of life aboard the tanker, the message said.

'I'LL BE BACK', JERSEY TOLD BY O'CONNELL

'Boy Congressman' Rescued By Police as Pro-Hague Crowd Rushes Him.

WIFE HURT IN MELEE

Hits 'Brutal Handling' In 'Free Speech' War Against Jersey City Mayor.

(By Associated Press)

JERSEY CITY, N. Y. — (AP) — Rep. Jerry O'Connell, frustrated in a second attempt to speak in Mayor Frank Hague's bailiwick, and rescued by police from a fist-swinging pro-Hague crowd, said today he would return—"perhaps to make my speech from the witness stand in federal court."

The Montana Democrat's attractive wife — nursing bruised legs and skinned knees she said she suffered when knocked down in the cursing crowd's surge upon her husband—declared she'd be at his side when he came back.

Not Seen at First.

Spirited last night into the bailiwick of the vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee, the bald-headed "boy congressman" walked unnoticed along with an ever-swelling procession of Hague cohorts bound for an open-air meeting called to "keep Jerry O'Connell the hell out of here."

Between two lines of closely-formed police O'Connell walked, still unrecognized, into an athletic field crowd estimated by police at between 10,000 and 15,000. Director of Public Safety Daniel Casey said 550 officers were on duty.

When he halted as if to speak—flouting the city's refusal to give him a permit — the shouted encouragements of a handful of supporters, who espied him first, were drowned in a bedlam of curses and shrieks of "kill him" as a thousand Hague supporters rushed him from all sides. Police formed a protective ring and took a lot of punches aimed at him.

O'Connell Escapes.

"Not a soul hit me," O'Connell said, but Capt. John Sinnott got a bruised eye and Chief Harry Walsh said he was cut on the jaw. Police said there were no arrests.

The police battled a way through the crowd for O'Connell and whisked him to the nearest precinct station in a squad car. Not under arrest, he was held for 15 minutes in a back room with high police officials and then taken in a police car to a railroad station and placed aboard a train for Newark.

He said in an interview at a Newark hotel that he would return here soon to continue his fight on Hague, who, he said, denied free speech in this city of 315,000 people.

O'Connell, in Newark, contended the majority of the crowd was "sympathetic" toward him, and he charged he had been "very brutally handled" by police at the field. Casey quickly denied this and said the congressman "told me 'I want to thank you for saving my life'"

Court Orders Inspection Of Tax Records Halted.

Two defendants in personal tax suits filed in common pleas court two weeks ago won a round in court this morning when they obtained an order halting examination of county tax records for their properties by attorneys for the plaintiff.

Ruling on a motion filed by Harry S. Black and Donald S. Black, defendants, Judge C. H. Huston suspended the inspection order granted last week, until June 24 when a final hearing on the defense motion will be held.

Attys Weldon and Huston and R. E. Hutchison, counsel for the Black interests, won the suspension on the grounds that the defendants were not given notice of the hearing on the application for the suspension order.

Filed by Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, as a taxpayer, the tax suits seek an accounting of personal taxes paid on four Mansfield estates in the period from 1926 to 1930.

Nippon Bombers Kill 600, Set City Of Canton Ablaze

Fleet of 11 Bombers Drops Explosives on Terrorized City.

Civilians Flee Into Shelters As Bombs Drop For 4 Hours.

(By United Press)

CANTON, China—Japanese airplanes subjected Canton to the most disastrous bombing in history today, devastating sections of this populous southern metropolis and causing incalculable damage.

Early estimates said casualties might reach 600. The figure was regarded as small because of the terrific nature of the bombardment. Alarms were sounded in time for many civilians to hurry to shelters.

Stage Two Raids.

The big Japanese bombers circled over the city in two raids, dropping tons of explosives during four hours of terror.

The planes concentrated over the Wonghsa station area, near the international settlement, setting vast fires, including 500 drums of oil. Many bombs fell only a few hundred yards from the settlement.

One bomb at the intersection of Waioi and Waisun streets destroyed several houses and shops, killing three and injuring six. These were the only early confirmed casualties, although it was believed there were others.

A direct hit was scored on the $700,000 Tungshan Memorial hall, causing damage estimated at more than $10,000. The building, most beautiful in Canton, was deroofed, shattering the glass in the dome and ruining valuable art curtains and rugs. Back of the stage, the portrait of Sun Yat-Sen remained hanging, undamaged.

Aided by Weather.

In the first raid, at least 11 bombers were sighted at 10:30 a. m., their operations aided by ideal weather. As they circled the city, the first bomb dropped near the treasury building.

Later bombs fell around the Tungshan memorial and in the usually densely populated Saikwan district.

CHINESE STRIKE BACK

While Japanese aerial bombs inflicted 600 casualties at Canton in the south, the powerfully reinforced invading armies on the north front were halted and driven back on their heels for the time being at least by Chinese counter attacks.

Most intense fighting was around Lenfeng, important point on the Lunghai railroad along which the Japanese are seeking to advance toward Hankow. Since their costly victory at Suchow, the Japanese had sought to move westward to Chengchow and then turn southward on Hankow. Again they appeared to have stretched their lines too far and too fast. Chinese cavalry and infantry slashed at them from all sides, with the outcome uncertain.

Jury Acquits Boy In Slaying of Sweetheart After Deliberating 3 Hours—Judge Orders Sanity Test.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Acquitted of murdering the girl he loved, 16-year-old Donald Carroll, jr., today saw only a psychopathic examination between him and his return to "Mom and Pop."

Moved by the boy's troubled story of how he shot Charlotte Matthiesen, 18, "at her request" because she was pregnant and feared disgrace, a jury of middle-aged married men last night returned a verdict of "not guilty because of insanity." They deliberated two hours and 56 minutes.

Mental Tests Ordered.

County Judge Thomas Downs immediately ordered the boy held for mental observation.

Cheering spectators and the jubilant parents of both Donald and Charlotte, who had worked together to save the youth from punishment in a "tragedy of adolescence," hailed the verdict.

"My prayers are answered," said Donald's mother.

"My girl would like the verdict," said Charlotte's mother, Mrs. Fred Matthiesen. "I want the boy to come to my house again."

Both the state and the prosecution contended the boy is now sane, the defense holding he was temporarily insane when he killed Charlotte last March but failed to complete their suicide pact in his sudden panic to save her.

YATES WINNER

Defeats Ewing Of Ireland In British Championship.

TROON, Scotland —(AP)— Charley Yates of Atlanta today won the British amateur golf championship, beating Cecil Ewing of Ireland in the 36-hole final, 3 and 2.

One up at the end of the morning 18 holes, in which each shot a four-over-par 75, Yates shot even par for the 16 holes of the afternoon round. He was three up at 27, lost the 28th as he got into trouble the only time on the round, then finished with five pars and a birdie.

At the final hole Charley hit a fine mashie niblick shot to within eight feet of the cup while the giant Irishman was in a trap to the left of the green in three. Ewing marched into the sand, exploded out nine feet away and knocked the putt into the back of the cup. Then Yates, without hesitation, stroked his ball home to win.

Bishop's Nephew Puts Will Under Fire For Second Time

(By Staff Correspondent)

GALION—The will of the late Bishop William Montgomery Brown of Galion was under fire today for the second time in less than two months as the result of a suit filed in probate court in Bucyrus Friday by Louis M. DuCommun of San Francisco, Cal., a nephew.

The suit asks the court to set aside the will, probated Nov. 29, 1937, on the ground that the paper was not his last will and testament.

The suit against the estate valued at $325,000 was filed just two days before the legal limit of six months for the filing of the will contest.

DuCommun asserts in his action that he and his sister, Lillian Voisard, are the sole heirs of the late bishop.

The first action was filed against the will by Mrs. Una Scranton Hammond of Cleveland on April 13. She filed an application to modify the journal entry issued by the court Oct. 4 in which Bishop Brown was ruled the sole heir of his late wife.

Mrs. Hammond protested on the grounds that the trust property known as the Carter-Bradford property in Cleveland, which forms the bulk of the estate, should revert to the natural heirs of the late Mary S. Bradford, foster mother of the late bishop's wife, instead of as provided in the will.

Quints, 4 Years Old Today, Dine On Ice Cream, Cake

CALLANDER, Ontario, (Canadian Press)—Rigid diet rules were relaxed a bit today so the Dionne quintuplets could enjoy ice cream at their fourth birthday celebration.

Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe, the quintuplets' physician, has decided they are old enough now to eat ice cream, but candy still is banned and there will be no frosting on their birthday cake.

The occasion also marked a definite trend toward restoring the famous little girls to a mode of living such as ordinary children know.

Now that they are "growing up," their guardians feel the Dionnes should be sheltered from the avidly curious public.

The Dionne family arranged the birthday celebration as a quiet event, with a predominant religious note, and no international radio hookups or other public participation, such as characterized other birthdays.

Any capable field general knows that he must use a change in tactics occasionally, shifting emphasis for a while to a minor move before proceeding further with his main plan of operations. So it is sometimes with a declarer, who may have to postpone cashing the long cards of one suit while he works on some other one for a round or so.

One-Heart was South's original bid on this deal and North's response was 1-No Trump. After a 2-Clubs bid by South, North took the contract to 3-No Trumps.

East started the defense by leading the spade J, which the A in dummy won. The heart J was next finessed and the heart A cashed, dropping West's Q. Declarer went over then to the heart K.

With only eight tricks in sight, the declarer felt he could not afford to cash his two set up hearts, as discards from his own hand might prove dangerous. He therefore led a low club, which West won. West was then in the position where if he cashed his spade K and led a spade to North's Q, the contract was assured and if he led the diamond Q, after cashing his spade K, the diamond 10 would be the needed ninth trick. He actually tried the latter play and North successfully made his contract.

If peonies can be out in the bud, they will last much longer than if taken from the garden when fully unfolded. It may happen, though, that only full-blown flowers can be obtained. In that event it is well to carry a pail of water into the garden and place the cut blooms in it immediately. Peonies absorb a surprisingly large amount of water and should be kept in a pail for 3 or 4 hours before they are taken into the livingroom. There are few flowers which last longer than peonies if they are handled properly. Florists often keep them in cold storage for weeks.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"There's something about Hank that I can't understand," Katherine began slowly. "He's a corking lad most always, but not measuring up to Bill, of course. Bill's the world's best bet in boys of his age."

I nodded assent, feeling again the old qualm of conscience because I never have been able to give Hank the same measure of affection that I accord to Bill.

"Hank's naturally more bossy than Bill," he went on, "and of course, most big boys will bully younger ones if they can get away with it. That has made the contrast between Bill and Hank more marked, but it isn't that which puzzles me and makes me anxious."

She paused, shaking her head slightly as one does at an unsolvable problem.

"I have had to watch him very carefully, of course," she said, "and it has seemed to me that he takes an enjoyment in seeing the small boys, especially Junior, suffer under his bullying. And I happened to overhear Bill raging at Hank one day because Hank accidentally had struck a rabbit with the car, and was watching it die instead of putting it out of its misery. It made me wonder a bit."

"Were you ever told anything about the early years of the Harrison children?" I asked.

Has Suspicions.

"Not directly," she answered, looking at me attentively, "but if it will help you any, I will tell you that careless words dropped have made me suspect much. Don't tell me anything unless you wish, but this is one subject on which I might be able to help you."

"You're the one person I could tell," I said, smiling at her affectionately. "Mother Graham, of course, would be deeply offended and grieved if she knew, because she never has acknowledged to anyone—even to herself—what the rest of us knew. I think even Dicky would be willing that I should confide in you, and I know that Mary and Bill would approve of anything that might help Hank."

"The 'firstly' and 'secondly' are well done," she commented. "Now for the gist of the thing."

"I'm afraid these trait of Hank's are inherited," I said, and stopped, reluctant to proceed. It seemed as if Elizabeth Harrison's dead hands were outstretched to me, pleading with me not to reveal the secret she had kept so well.

Then I jerked myself back to sanity. If my dead sister-in-law could come back and know what I was doing, in all probability she would be urging me on, frantic to save her boy from the heritage she apparently had given him.

"You know what a wonderful woman Dicky's sister, Harriet Braithwaite, is," I began, and remembered, as Katherine nodded, what good cause she had to know Harriet Braithwaite's high mind and brave heart. They had carried Katherine and herself through a trying crisis, with potential tragedy, when Harriet's husband, Edwin Braithwaite, distinguished surgeon, shattered and worn by his World war experiences, had mistaken thwarted fatherhood for a warmer feeling during Katherine's devoted nursing care of him.

They had carried her through an even more trying experience since, and I did not wonder that Katherine supplemented her assenting nod with an earnest, "She belongs to the sisterhood of the world's best."

"Dicky's other sister, Elizabeth Harrison," I began slowly, "was Harriet's antithesis. But I do not think she was quite responsible for either her traits or her actions. But if I am to be truthful I must tell you that she was selfish to the core, but so hypocritical that she was able to preserve the pose of being a devoted mother, bringing up her children with love and reason, pretending to have an abhorrence of corporal punishment, yet all the time secretly punishing them in ways that spelled refined torture neither more nor less."

Smooth Manners Make Charming Personality.

But Good Manners Are Acquired.

What a charming picture these young people make!

But they weren't born with social poise. They're invited to the nicest places today because they learned the rules. Let's eavesdrop on their good manners.

Tom introduces Dick to Mary, "Miss Burns, this is Mr. Wilson." He mentions the girl's name first, the man's name second. He avoids the elaborate form of introduction "Let me present . . . " and the ungracious one, "Meet Miss Burns."

"Dick is a top-notch tennis player—almost as good as you, Mary," Tom goes on to say, putting the two of them immediately at ease.

How smooth are your introductions? Do you ever make slips like these: neglecting to write a bread-and-butter letter after a week-end visit? Saying ":'Pardon ME" instead of "Excuse me" or "I'm sorry," when you jostle someone or have to pass in front of others at the movies?

Follow the tips on smooth, friend-winning manners in our 32-page booklet. Etiquette for restaurants, movies, parties, travel.

THEATER

IF YOU don't think pictures is a [illegible] business, listen to this: As[illegible]e wire-haired terrier that made a hit in "The Thin Man," "After The Thin Man" and other pictures, has just been signed to play a part in an English picture and will go to England to make it. The contract calls for Asta's owner and trainer, and his own cameraman and director. Then of course the canine star's business manager will go along. All of which is reminiscent of the days when Strongheart's name had to be billed over that of all the human players or else. And he had the star dressing room on his studio lot. At that, perhaps Asta's talent deserves to be rated over a lot of her human contempararies.

Cocoanut Grove.

The Cocoanut Grove, famous night club of Hollywood is the objective when a group of unemployed musicians start out from Chicago in a trailer won by one of the band boys. Most of the action in this musical takes place on the westward trip, one of the notable happenings being the discovery that the girl tutor with them can sing. But of course the audience isn't the least bit surprised for it will know before hand that Harriet Hilliard can sing. Harriet is one of the supporting players with the star of The Yacht Club Boys add to the music, little Billy Lee adds heart interest and Ben Blue and Rufe Davis speed up the comedy. Harry Owen, who wrote the smooth notes of "Sweet Lelani," and his orchestra are other attractions. The picture opens at midnight tonight at the Madison and runs through Wednesday.

* * *

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife."

When a weolthy young American with almost as many wives as millions walks into a Riviera department store, he walks out with a pair of pajamas and a very clear idea of whom he will take for his eighth wife. And as it happens the girl must marry for money. It looks like a perfect set-up until his eighth wife decides to break him of the habits that caused all of his other wives to divorce him. This gives you an idea of what "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" is all about. Bluebeard, you will recall, was the meanie who married seven wives and whacked off the heads of at least six of them. Gary Cooper plays the romantic American and Claudette Colbert the charming young English woman in search of money. The picture, with an outstanding cast, including Edward Everett Horton, David Niven, Elizabeth Patterson and Herman Bing, opens today at the Ohio.

* * *

"Lady In the Morgue."

Preston Foster again portrays the hard boiled, pleasantly alcoholic detective Bill Crane, which he first introduced in "The Wentland Case" in the latest Crime club picture, "Girl In the Morgue." The title comes from the fact that the body of a girl found in a rooming house, is taken to the morgue and disappears while the morgue keeper is murdered. The action is worked out with such suspense that no one can guess the ending. Patricia Ellis, Frank Jenks and Barbara Pepper are in the cast. The picture opens at the Majestic tommorrow along with a Torchy Blane episode, "Torchy Blane in Panama." There is a new cast of principals in this.

* * *

"Happy Landing."

The Ritz will show two features over the holiday, starting Sunday and running through Tuesday. Sonja Heine's third picture, "Happy Landing," with Don Ameche, will be the major attraction. This is the story of a little Norwegian maid who waited for her Prince Charming and thought she had found him when a handsome band leader dropped out of the sky at the annual festival and danced twice with her. But of course he wasn't the real prince— his manager was. The band master is played by Ceasar Romero, with Ameche as the manager. Ethel Merman, Leah Ray and Billy Gilbert are in the cast. One of the Judge Hardy's pictures, "You're Only Young Once," is the second feature.

Cottage Cheese Strudel.

Dough—five cups flour, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons shortening, one egg, one cup lukewarm water. Filling—two pounds cottage cheese, four eggs, one cup sugar (or according to taste), cinnamon. Place flour and salt in large bowl and put shortening, egg and water in a depression in flour. Mix to soft dough, remove and knead 15 minutes or until dough is soft. Let stand two hours or more under a bowl to keep dough moist. When ready to use, roll dough just a little, then stretch carefully (as dough tears easily) till very thin. Place stretched out dough on large cloth, as it is easier to roll out. Trim thick edge off and place cheese filling on dough. To make filling, mix cheese, eggs and sugar, put on stretched dough and spread. Sprinkle cinnamon over all. Roll, put in greased pan and bake at 350 degrees about one hour. Rub butter over top before placing in oven.

CHAPTER XVII

"Sorry. If you could sell me some advertising in this man's town, I'd be glad to pay you for whatever linage you turned it. But it wouldn't pay you for the shoe leather you'd wear out."

"I'm afraid I'm not interested. It looks as if I were going to need my shoe soles. Good-by."

"S'long."

* * *

Three o'clock found the job hunter's spirits and knees sagging.

"I may as well call it a day and one side of Main Street cleaned up," she mused. "That leaves one more round. And after that . . . the dark." She crossed the street and paused before the open door of a drugstore "Rank extravagance for a poor girl," she sighed.

A moment later, she was saying to the proprietor who chanced to wait on her:

"A dab of ammonia in it, Mr Eddy. You don't happen to want an assistant, I suppose? A young woman with no experiences or references, but willing to learn and salary no object . . . not much object."

"You?" he smiled, twirling a spoon in her drink "I'd take you on in a minute, Larry . . . just for your good looks. But it's keeping me scratching to pay the two people I have to keep around.'

Larry took a long and satisfying sip of her nickel drink.

When she reached home, there was no need to tell the outcome of her quest.

"Don't say a word!" her mother insisted. "You're hot and all worn out. I can see it. You're going up and have a bath and then you're going to lie down and rest until supper's ready. You need sleep worse than anything else"

"Thanks. Mums That does sound sort of good. I believe I will. Ollie is going to stop on her way home . . . bringing some of my junk from the office."

"Well, if you're asleep she isn't going to see you. Whatever she has to say can wait. You've seen her once today, anyway."

"All right. There wasn't any mail for me, was there?"

"Larry! If I didn't almost forget! No, there was nothing but a circular. But there's a note for you on the hall table. A boy brought it at dinner time. I didn't know him and he was riding a bicycle. He said there wasn't any answer."

"Thanks. It can't be anything very important," Larry decided. But felt a strange little tingle of nerves when she picked up the missive and carried it to her room.

She carried it to a low chair beside the window and seated herself wearily. That queer sensation persisted and her fingers trembled a bit as she tore open the letter and allowed the envelope to flutter to the floor. Only a few typewritten lines. Larry read them through twice before she really comprehended their message.

The note said:

"Dear Larry:

Please excuse typewriter and the liberty. I expect to call at eight this evening and trust that it will suit your convenience I must see you for a few minutes if possible. Very important.

Yours,
Clay.

* * *

Larry hastily returned Clay's note to its envelope thrust it under a cushion that ornamented the foot of her bed

Mental and physical fatigue seemed to leave Larry as she sat in the bathtub lathering her slim body For some reason, that note had changed everything The little thrill its several readings gave her still persisted and her curiosity was piqued. Clay said it was "important." That sounded as if something might have happened at the office. It would be funny if old Mr. Wardlaw was insisting that she come back. Funny if she did have a job, after all this depressing worry.

But that would be too preposterous. How could she ever go back into the office, after what had happened? After what Clay had told her, only last night? That seemed ages ago . . . if it ever had happened. It would be impossible to be so near him every day, all the time knowing . . . Even if he were only going to be there a few weeks. Maybe he would stay now. Mr. Sullivan at the bank seemed to think that Clay was slated for big things at the Norwood mills. It would be a shame for him to leave. It always would be on her conscience, not that it was her fault, but it was on her account.

* * *

An hour's rest and she would be as good as new. Meanwhile, she must be thinking what she would wear tonight.

Larry didn't think she had been asleep, until she found Olive Case shaking her gently.

"I must say some folks have it pretty soft!" remarked that vivacious young woman, helping herself to a seat on the bed. "Your mother said you wanted to see me. I brought your junk, left it down on a chair in the hall. I guess I got everything"

"Thanks a lot Ollie. I'm sure you did."

"What's on your mind? Find a job yet?"

'No I just thought I'd like to ask you what went on in the salt mine today. Who's doing my stuff?"

"Me . just as I suspected My dear. I had such a thrill today Mr. Odell sent for me to come to his office He's the grandest thing, isn't he? What I mean, when you get a chance to really talk to him alone. He was funny . . . told me that you had left, just as if I didn't know as much about it as he did! I tried to kid him a little about you"

"Ollie Case! You never did!"

'Don't worry He's cagey But there was a sort of blissful look in his eyes when I told him how crazy we all were about you and how we were going to miss you. I think he likes you a heap, myself. It's too darned bad you can't be there to follow up the good start you had."

"You're silly! Then nothing much happened.

"Only to me. Listen, darling, was that on the level what you told me . . . about Rommy firing you on account of the files? It's got me scared pink."

* * *

"Oh, you can get by," Larry evaded. Then there had been no upheaval of any kind. Her weariness returned suddenly. If Mr. Odell had something to tell her about a new job, it wasn't at the mill. She caught her breath suddenly as she realized that Ollie was resting one elbow on that pillow which still sheltered Clay's note.

"Well, I got to be trotting along," Miss Case remarked to Larry's relief. "or I'll be late for supper. What you doing tonight?"

"Going to bed early, if I don't stay here," Larry replied in a fresh panic. "I did go out for a while this afternoon and scout around for a job. I'm nearly dead."

"Poor kid! Oh, well . . . something will happen. It always does." Ollie rose reluctantly. "'Bye, old dear. See you some more soon."

When Larry answered a summons to the supper table she looked very girlish in her simple white dress, hose and shoes. She still was tired from her day's experiences, it showed in her gray eyes, and there was an almost wistful droop to the small mouth.

"La Gish," Griff observed. "Who's going to be anguished tonight? Old Wilbur?"

"You're not going out are you, Larry?" Mrs. Layne interposed.

"No, Mums. I put on a clean dress was all."

Raise Scholarship Standard, Morrow School Head Urges

MT. GILEAD—Greater emphasis on general scholarship was urged this week in a letter citing objectives for the 1938-1939 school year, sent by County Superintendent F. E. Honnold to all Morrow county superintendents.

"In the senior scholarship test this spring," he said, "I noticed that in many counties and cities the total scores went well over 300. For the last two years, the highest grade made by any Morrow county pupil has geen under this figure.

"In the eighth grade tests the highest mark was 169. In other nearby counties, marks exceeded this figure by a wide margin, one having 16 pupils with a higher standing, the highest being 181.

"This being the case, the fact stands out that scholarship in Morrow county is not as high as in the majority in the state and not what it should be. This is to be our first consideration when school starts in the fall."

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

One of our favorite family diversions is to gather whatever we can find to eat into a basket, drive an hour or two among picturesque, or unfamiliar scenery and stop along some stream, build a little fire, eat, wade or go fishing.

On our last picnic of this kind, the three older children found a pool too deep for wading, and begged to "swim." Accordingly some rather sketchy bathing suites were improvised out of a part of their regular apparel and they got wet all over. It was a fine, warm day and the splashing had just reached its height. My little girl, her hair confined in one of my old red handkerchiefs, was in the act of splashing her two brothers, when along the ridge behind the pond came walking a big Jersey bull.

Needless to say, there was a scurry for cover, and three breathless, excited children climbed the fence and stood, wet, round-eyed and chargrined. He was not a vicious animal, and I think was as surprised as they were. But "safety first" is always our rule in such cases.

Another time, after traveling ten miles or more, we found a beautiful grove of sugar and beech trees with a short-cropped pasture along a clear, fast flowing stream. Upon the gate were the words, "See the Owner."

Just behind the trees we saw the house and the farmer sat upon the porch. He showed a kindly, oldish face, as he greeted me. I asked if we might use his grove to cook our lunch and go wading.

"Yes," he said, hesitatingly, "if you will keep it clean, and shut the gate when you leave." I spoke about his crops, his cattle, hogs and sheep. He smiled. "Darned if you're not a farmer, too. You understand about the pasture,—you won't let the cattle out. Early this spring some city fellows came and spilled out a lot of bottles and old tin cans along the fence yonder. I caught one slicker at it, and when I asked him what he was about he got mad and said it was a free country. Why some folks even leave big paper bags full of garbage along the ditches of this road! Could I go to a city lawn and shove my garbage off? Not by a jugful! I tell you, I'm layin' for 'em!"

We had an enjoyable time, and we did not abuse the farmer's hospitality.

STRIKE PEACE MOVES START

Quiet Prevails On Goodyear Picket Lines; Union Calls Mass Meeting.

brutality of the police against the people of East Akron."

Union leaders claimed police broke up a peaceful picket line yesterday a few hours after the strike was called, when a police-estimated crowd of 3,000 milled about the plants to prevent non-CIO men from entering.

Grillo exhorted radio listeners to call Mayor Lee D. Schroy and "tell him you want him to be mayor of Akron, not Charlie McCarthy for Goodyear."

"Tell him you are paying taxes to get police protection for your home and that you are not getting it when 95 per cent of the police force is out at Goodyear."

Threat of a city-wide transportation strike apparently faded today with Miller's announcement, although there was no direct word from union officials.

CIO and AFL leaders, comprising a joint "strategy committee," met last night, after which Redmond Greer, secretary of the Akron CIO council, said they discussed a proposal "to mobilize 50,000 men in the event negotiations with Goodyear break down."

"The company is ready to resume negotiations at any time," a Goodyear spokesman said after the last night shift filtered out last night and the tire-making factories were shut for the Memorial day week-end.

ASHLAND SUIT ASKS $25,000 CRASH DAMAGES

Alice M. Garfield Sues After Auto Mishap Near Savannah; Charges Negligence.

ASHLAND—Damages of $25,800 are sought in a suit filed in common pleas court here by Alice M. Garfield against Paul McQuate for alleged injuries and permanent disability said to have been sustained when a car driven by the defendant crashed into a car which the plaintiff was a passenger on October 2, 1937.

It is claimed in the petition that while she was a passenger in the automobile of Howard Hammer, and traveling on the Seven Hills road northwest of Savannah, the defendant, while coming from the opposite direction crashed into the front of the Hammer car.

The petition charges that the defendant was traveling at a high rate of speed, and that because of the speed, on topping a knoll in the road swerved far to the left side thereby causing the accident.

In the accident the plaintiff asserts that she sustained severe injuries. Permanent disability and suffering from other body bruises are claimed.

WANTS FUNDS RETURNED

ASHLAND—A bill for $200 has been presented to the city of Ashland by an Akron firm because this municipality has allegedly failed to collect the general license fee from all distributors of handbills as provided by the Ashland Anti-handbill ordinance.

It is claimed by the Akron firm that after the passing of the Ashland ordinance, they paid $50 each time for the four distributions. It is charged that while they paid, others have distributed bills here and the city has failed to collect.

If the sum is not returned, the Akron firm plans a court action to recover. General collection of the fee is said to have been stopped after a Georgia court outlawed a similar ordinance.

LEGION PLAYS AT FAIRGROUND SUNDAY

AN OPPORTUNITY to advance in the Central Ohio semi-pro league will be offered the American Legion entry over the holiday week-end.

Manager Dewey Durant's men are hosts to Marion at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, and go to Coshocton to play a postponed game Monday.

The outcome of these two games will be important in determining the first half championship hopes of Mansfield's only representative in organized competition.

If the Men of Durant can hang up a pair of victories over Sunday and Memorial day, they will advance to an important position in the tight circuit race.

The Mansfield club has won one game and lost one to date, but it is possible for the Legionnaires to reach first place if the present leaders should drop only one game in the next two days.

Durant plans to send Howard Patterson to the mound Sunday. The former Ontario high athlete showed surprisingly good form in his initial appearance against Columbus, and Durant believes it will be difficult for Marion to beat Sunday now that the offense has found its range at the plate.

The Legionnaires failed to produce any runs for Patterson, but came back last Sunday with 14 hits to pound out an easy 13 to 4 triumph at the expense of Logan.

Either Harold Geiger, who has served in relief capacities in both games to date, or Lefty Deeds will climb the hill for the Mansfield team in Monday's appearance at Coshocton, where the Legionnaires will encounter one of the toughest clubs in the circuit.

Satisfied with the lineup as a whole, Durant does not plan any radical changes for the games.

The Marion lineup is stocked with several players who performed in the Ohio State league last year. Included in the President's lineup are Stiewe, who was one of the best shortstops in the league last year, and Robbins, an outfielder.

By Walsh

WALSH BELIEVES COLORED FIGHTER WILL PROFIT BY DELAY

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK—(INS)—Nobody being any more exhausted than this stoop-shouldered agent by the continued quiescence and repose in connection with what started out to be a gripping encounter for the world's welterweight championship, I can only believe today that, if anyone can possibly profit from all this inertia it must be Henry Armstrong, the colored-chile challenger.

With the weight-rap off for purposes of next Tuesday's third attempt to conduct the promotion, Henry ought to be close to even money against Barney Ross, the defending champion.

Ross was once 7-5, but that was before Thursday's first postponement because of too much rain. Yesterday the thing was called, I suspect, on account of too much darkness last night. It was raining at noon when the postponement was taken.

Two hours later, a man might have contracted sunburn poisoning under a beach umbrella. Of course, I'm no one to complain, since it isn't my deficit, but if they keep this up they'll also be postponing the profits. A sale of $100,000 was claimed on Thursday. Nothing much was sold on Friday. Nothing at all will be sold over the holiday week-end, where everybody leaves town except street cleaners and newspapermen, mentioned in the order of their probable solvency.

And if anybody comes back from his vacation on Tuesday with the change out of a quarter, it stands to reason that he had a rotten time.

But Henreh is at least one beneficiary of this prolonged anguish. The featherweight champion now doesn't have to be a lightweight in order to fight for the welterweight title.

He now can weight what he will, probably a little more than 133 pounds; whereas Ross had him doing 136 at noon, taking off four pounds before nightfall and putting it on back again by daybreak. Ross also was given the privilege of weighing anything under the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, with the result that probably he'll do nearly 143.

That's one reason he's favorite, the absence of scale-worry. Another is that he still seems to be deft and agile and spry, in spite of the mileage his pedics have given him. But, he's no male ingenue.

* * *

Believe Delay Will Hurt Armstrong.

THEY think, too that Barney's tractable personality will better carry him over the next few days than will Henreh's volatile temperament, although seemingly they forget that one of the outstanding examples of continued delay saw Ross blow the darby to McLarnin. However, the idea is that Armstrong will suffer more by contrast, being more emotional, as best shown by the fact that, in action, the gent slavers at the mouth corners and his hands twitch, like a dice shooter on the baby-shoes pass.

The News-Journal Class A league golfers got off to a pretty fast start yesterday as Vin Malaska paced the scoring with a sparkling three-under-par 33 at Possum Run.

Playing with the DeLuxe Cabs, Malaska showed mid-season form in manufacturing the brilliant score in yesterday's matches postponed from Monday because of rain.

10 Break 40.

Ten of the players broke 40 yesterday, but only one threatened Malaska's fine count. He was Pete Linster of the Richland Printers, whose misfortune it was to be paired with Malaska. Malaska won the match.

Goldsmith Clothiers, Big Three Beers and the Richland Printers marked up ten victories yesterday.

The winning clubs each tallied 3 to 2 decisions to climb into a tie for the lead.

The Clothiers, defending champions, led by Pilot, who carded a 39, won two matches and team total from the Yuncker Sports. John Kleshinski, who had a 37, and Nick Linster, with a 40, won the points for the Sportsmen.

The Beers, with Frank Cipris leadig the way with a 38, copped a pair of matches and team total from the Matthes Clotheirs. Although pacing the Matthes club with a 38, Thornton Lake, No. 1 man, dropped his match to Cipris. Paul Jesson collected a 39 to give the Beers its second match.

Printers Win.

The Printers and Cabs waged a battle before the former emerged with the decision.

Deley added the second match for the Cabs, but Chuck Snyder bowed to Ted Etzel who cracked out a 38, and then the Printing club sailed through the last match and team total with ease. The Cabs forfeited the No. 4 match.

Redlegs Edge Cardinals In Night Tilt

Win 2 to 1 Decision in 10th On Two Doubles.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—You never can tell what's going to happen around Cincinnati after dark. Nobody knew until about 11:30 last night, when Virgil Davis and Harry Craft drove exactly 21,550 eye-witnesses crazy out at the ball park by smacking out a double apiece.

That meant the Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1, in ten innings of some of the finest pitching seen here in a long time. It was the first night game of the season and Johnny Vander Meer, Deacon McKechnie's fireball expert, and Bill McGee, who held Brooklyn to one hit not long ago, both kept the ball looking like nothing at all.

Two were out when Davis drew a bead on the scoreboard in center and bounced one of McGee's prayers against it. Then Craft took a look at right center and bang the ball went there with nobody to stop it. Davis coasted home to make up for a passed ball that made the Cards' only run possible.

Vandy smoked the ball past ten Gas Housers for strike-outs. McGee fanned five.

Vandy gave the Cards five hits, J. Martin getting the only extra-base hit, a double in the fourth which developed into the St. Louis run. McGee gave 11, but few came when they counted.

The victory cut the margin of the third-place Boston Bees over the Reds to one game and gave the Reds hopes of moving up there when they meet the Cards again Sunday. No game was scheduled today.

Retain Lead At Inverness

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—Ed Dudley and Ky Laffoon today sought to withstand another double-challenge from a star-studded field to protect their lead in the fourth annual Inverness invitational golf tournament.

Dudley and Laffoon managed to gain but an even break in two matches yesterday, but still held a three point lead over their nearest competitors, Willie Goggin and Frank Walsh. Dudley and Laffoon have a plus six rating. Gogging and Walsh a plus three rating.

Dudley and Laffoon were beaten 1 up by Jimmy Thomson and Tommy Armour and then regained the one point loss in that match by downing Henry Pickard and Johnny Revolta by the same margin.

Today's pairings sent the leaders against Horton Smith and Harry Cooper in their first match and against Sam Snead and Vic Ghezzi in their second.

Whitehill To Hurl Delayed Opener

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw who has been instrumental in the drive of the Cleveland Indians into first place in the American league standing, was scheduled to pitch for the Tribe here today in a delayed opener of a series with the St. Louis Browns. Les Tietje was to oppose him.

The contest between the teams yesterday was postponed because of a heavy rain storm which broke out as the Browns were taking the field for practice.

UNBEATEN CLUBS VIE

Two undefeated teams, Johnsville and Hayesville, will meet at the Pines near Johnsville at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. Shaffer will hurl for Johnsville.

GAME IN AFTERNOON

Both games of the double-header the Cleveland Indians will play with the Chicago White Sox at the Stadium on Memorial day will be staged in the afternoon at 1:30 p. m.

Mansfield Record-Breaker Leaps for State Mark Today

Keith O'Rourke of Warren to Attempt to Match Jump of 6-5½ Made at Stadium Field.

By JOHN H. COLBURN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A skinny, 17-year-old Warren boy eyed the national scholastic high jump record today and was confident he could break it—if the weather's right.

"If it's hot and the field's dry, I'll make it," Keith O'Rourke said in a quiet way, just as if it were an everyday occurrence to take a 15-yard run and leap six feet seven inches into the air.

O'Rourke came here to compete in the finals of Ohio's annual scholastic track and field meet, which found Toledo Scott favored to capture Class A honors and Upper Arlington and Columbiana in a neck-and-neck battle for Class B championship.

Five weeks ago O'Rourke, who said high jumping just "came natural" to him, leaped 6 feet 5½ inches in the Mansfield Relays. That was an inch above the state record and a half inch short of the national mark.

"I think I can do it today if the weather's right. It's my last chance—I graduate in June," added O'Rourke.

While the finals in the 31st annual track and field championships were being run off, baseball, tennis and golf titles were being decided.

Canton McKinley defended its Class A baseball laurels against a strong Cincinnati Hughes nine, while there was every indication that the Sugar-Grove-Pitchin Class B tilt would revolve into a hurlers' battle.

Cincinnati players grabbed the edge in places in the tennis field and two, Tom Price of Western Hills and Marshall Chambers of Walnut Hills, were favorites in the singles matches.

Price met Don Mason of Bowling Green and Chambers played Bobby Faught of Upper Arlington in today's semi-finals. In the doubles, Burke-Grieser of Springfield were paired with Troup-Leonard of Dayton Stivers and Russell-Gordon of Lakewood opposed Wright-Bockell of Cincinnati Hughes.

Worthington took a strong team lead at the end of 18 holes of the 36-hole four-man golf matches with 329, followed by Sylvania with 343 and Akron Buchtel with 348. Paul Shurtz captured the first day's medal honors with 77.

Two state scholastic records were broken and one equalled in the track meet preliminaries.

John Saunders, speedy colored boy from Glendale, Hamilton county Class B school, sped over the 220-yard low hurdles in 25.4 seconds to clip five-tenths of a second from the mark of his brother, Joe, and he equalled his own record of 15 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles.

This "one man track team" also was favored to capture the 100-yard dash finals as the result of his fast qualifying run.

Another record fell when lanky Don Bailey of Cleveland James Ford Rhodes skimmed over the high hurdles in 14.8, a tenth of a second faster than Al Kurnat of Cleveland John Marshall was able to do in establishing the mark last year. Kurnat failed to qualify in that event yesterday.

A light rain failed to mar the opening day program during which a third of the 1,100 athletes who came here for the sports carnival were eliminated.

Scott Given Edge.

Toledo Scott's well-balanced team was given the edge for the track honors after qualifying five men. Last year's champion Sandusky team placed only one. Three each were qualified by Cleveland Central, East and Cathedral Latin, Springfield and Akron Garfield.

The Entrikin brothers topped Columbiana's six qualifiers while Upper Arlington, the 1937 Class B titlist, won five places and Oberlin, a "dark horse" contender, had four.

Saunders' performances virtually assured him of three first places and 18 points—and a remote chance to win the Class B bunting if the other points are badly split.

Yates Rallies To Go One Up

TROON, Scotland — (U.P.) — Charley Yates of Atlanta came from behind today to hold a lead of one up over Cecil Ewing of Ireland at the end of the morning round in their 36-hole final match for the British amateur golf championship.

Yates had an outward medal of 37 and was home in 37 for a 74, three strokes over par. Ewing, out in par 36, had a 39 coming home to aggregate 75, four over par.

Plan Special Golf Events

Courses Arrange Tourneys For Holiday Week-end.

Mansfield shotmakers face a busy holiday week-end judging from the list of events scheduled for the city's three courses.

MEMORIAL Day

On they march with heads held high . . . spirit soaring with the pride of patriotism. Monday—as we remember the sacrifice they made that a nation might live--let us dedicate ourselves anew to the cause for which they fought. Let us pledge ourselves to the task of winning an even greater victory for ourselves and posterity. Let us pray for no more bloodshed . . . no more maimed and killed, but only life and strength to build a greater community and a greater nation.

OH, HOW WONDERFUL TO THINK THAT DAVID MAY YET BE CURED— ABLE TO WALK AGAIN—NO LONGER A CRIPPLE! IT MUST HAVE BEEN AGONY FOR HIM, AS IT'S BEEN—HE WAS ALWAYS SO ACTIVE!

I—I WONDER IF I OUGHT TO GO TO HIM—TELL HIM I KNOW ABOUT IT ALL—HIS PRETENDING ABOUT MISS WINSLOW—HOW I ADMIRE HIM FOR DOING IT—FOR ME!—NO!—I CAN'T DO THAT—I'D BE BETRAYING HER CONFIDENCE—AND BESIDES, THAT NURSE MIGHT HAVE BEEN WRONG—MAYBE HE REALLY HAS CHANGED IN HIS FEELINGS—TOWARD ME!
AND HERE'S CLARE!
THE HOSPITAL JUST PHONED I MIGHT SEE BROTHER LATE THIS AFTERNOON—POOR MAN—HE MUST BE SUFFERING A LOT! —I—I WONDER IF I OUGHT TO ASK PAM IF SHE'D LIKE TO GO?

MARKET POINTS HIGHER DURING EARLY TRADING

Brokers Believe Improved Sentiment Due to Passage of Tax Revision Bill.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks pointed slightly upward in today's early market dealings.

As a quiet opening improvement was registered for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, North American, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, Douglas Aircraft, Southern Pacific and General Electric.

Moderately better sentiment, brokers said, was due partly to the fact that the tax revision bill was out of the way, becoming a law without the president's signature.

Holders of copper shares interpreted the latest statistical figures on this metal as somewhat encouraging.

Analysts in the steel field saw a ray of hope in the announcement from Rome that a competitive agreement between American steelmakers and the international steel cartel had been ratified by the European Producers association. The pact, it was understood, places restrictions on both United States and foreign makers designed to stabilize the industry.

A department of commerce estimate placed department store sales for the country as a whole during the week ended May 21 at 14 per cent below the corresponding period a year ago.

POSTPONE PETIT JURY SESSION

Court Officials Delay Calling Panel As Docket For Next Week Dwindles.

A two-week postponement of a session of the Richland county petit jury scheduled for Tuesday had been called today after a $3,033 damage suit, was dismissed at the plaintiff's request.

A calendar of nine cases originally set for trial next week had dwindled to three today and none of them requires a jury, C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk, said. In two of the cases on the schedule, the defendants have failed to file answers or employ counsel, and the jury was waived in the other.

A suit seeking $3,033 damages for the loss of a barn in Morrow county by fire was dismissed on the application of Don P. Newsom, the plaintiff. The suit, which named Lynn Maxwell of Lexington as the defendant, was to have been heard Tuesday. Newsom had contended that the fire which destroyed his barn was caused by a defective threshing machine operated by Maxwell.

Jury trial was waived in a suit seeking a $117 judgment against R. C. Blake, Mansfield. The action was filed by the Asher Brothers company, Sandusky. It will be heard by Judge C. H. Huston.

Uncontested judgment suits against The Mansfield Memorial Park, Inc., and R. C. Barrett, Cleveland, will require no trial.

In the case against the Memorial park group the Joseph H. Matthews company of Pittsburgh asks $414 for grave markers sold to the defendant for Memorial park west of the city.

A $15,000 damage suit against Barrett seeks to collect that amount for injuries suffered by James Shriver, a minor, in a traffic accident in Lincoln Heights. The action was filed by Mrs. Helen Shriver, the boy's mother.

DECORATE VETS' GRAVES AGAIN

Scouts to March to Cemetery With Flowers Monday Morning.

For the 18th year, Mansfield Boy Scouts will place potted flowers on the graves of all war veterans in the Mansfield cemetery on Memorial day.

The practice of decorating the graves was first started by veterans and patriotic organizations and continued until 1920 when the scouts began to help. Decorating of the graves is now a part of the Boy Scout's 100 per cent duty requirements.

Scouts will meet in Central park at 8:30 a. m. Monday where they will hold a brief memorial service in charge of Philip Smith, district commissioner. They will then march in a body to the cemetery.

and business houses and industrial plants will be closed for Mansfield's Memorial day observance.

Tomorrow will be Memorial Sunday and the patriotic services will be held at United Presbyterian church with the Rev. H. H. Ford, pastor, delivering the sermon. Veteran and patriotic groups will meet at their headquarters at 10:15 and go to the church in a body.

Monday morning will be given over to decorating the graves of soldier dead in city and rural cemeteries. McVey Post of the American Legion will be host at noon Monday at its annual luncheon for G. A. R. and the Spanish-American war veterans.

At 11 a. m. the American Legion auxiliary will hold its symbolical service of decorating the graves of the unknown war dead at the Doughboy monument in Central park. Church bells will be tolled for a few minutes at noon and at 1 p. m. Fire Chief Charles Seeburger will sound assembly by ringing the old city fire bell which stands in Central park.

Parade Moves at 1:30.

The parade units will form on Park avenue west at Mulberry and the column will move at 1:30 to Memorial stadium in Mansfield cemetery where Memorial day services will be held.

In the column will be officers of the day and officers of the various veteran and patriotic organizations, the Gold Star mothers, the Legion drum corps, and Senior High school band and the Prospect park band, Battery D, and the women's auxiliaries.

The parade will move east on Park avenue to Main street, south on Main to Chester, and east on Chester to the cemetery.

The program at the stadium will be opened by R. W. Stephenson, president of the Memorial association. Invocation will be asked by Rev. Ford who is chaplain of the day.

After music by the Prospect band, Harry Constance will read John Logan's General Order, and James L. Zimmerman will read the historic Gettysburg speech of Abraham Lincoln. Music by a male quartet will be followed by a reading of "On Flanders Field", the memorial poem of the World war, by James Brownscombe.

The roll call of the soldier dead for the year will be read by Glenn Gamber, and of the auxiliary dead by Mrs. Jane Beelman.

The oration of the day will be delivered by Col. Frank P. Lahm, distinguished Mansfielder who is now head of aviation at Governor's Island, N. Y., and who will return to his home city for the observance. Col. Lahm will be escorted to the cemetery by the Frank Lahm cadets, model airplane club which has been named after him.

Taps will be sounded by the American Legion buglers and the three bands will play "Star Spangled Banner".

In case of rain the exercises will be held at United Presbyterian church.

Fair Holiday? Maybe, If We're Lucky.

If Mansfield is lucky, it will have a fair holiday tomorrow and Monday. If it isn't, it will have thunder showers. The forecast today predicted "local" showers for both days. Today was fair and warm, with a temperature reading of 80 at noon today, as compared to a high of 76 yesterday. The low was 54.

Striking Rubber Workers Return to Goodyear Posts

UNION VOTES APPROVAL OF PEACE PLANS

Conflicting Statements From Employes, Company Cloud Settlement Decision.

(By Associated Press)

AKRON — A peace clouded by conflicting statements prevailed at Goodyear Tire and Rubber company plants today as union employes returned to jobs they left to go on a strike of four days' duration.

Goodyear local of the CIO-affiliated Union Rubber Workers of America last night voted by a 9-to-1 ratio, their leaders said, to end the strike and accept "certain concessions" from the company.

Union and non-union employes returned to the plants to resume operations at 6 a. m. without incident. Only two city patrolmen were in evidence. One police cruiser occupied by three officers was parked opposite No. 1 plant.

Issues Settled, Claim.

A statement from the union's executive board claimed "outstanding grievances" had been settled and "the company has pledged itself to conclude a written contract with the union." The statement said "certain facts indicate the strike itself was the result of a deliberate campaign . . . "

The company replied in a formal statement that "any talk in the conferences about a signed agreement was limited to a mere expression of willingness on our part to discuss the subject at a future time."

"The charges made by the union that the strike called by its executives was inspired by a company plot are too ridiculous to be considered by any sane person." Goodyear said.

The strike, affecting about 8,000 workers, precipitated a riot last Thursday night in which at least 80 persons were injured. City police used gas shells and nightsticks to rout 3,000 strikers and sympathizers.

Ohio National Guard commanders stood ready for a possible call for Goodyear's opening today.

Sherman H. Dalrymple, the union's international president, said, "in my opinion the membership used sane and sound judgment in returning to work—it is not our way to make gains by fighting in the street."

After approximately 3,000 union members voted on the board's recommendation to return to "their regular shifts," some 400 pickets were withdrawn from posts surrounding the massive plants.

There was plenty going on at golf courses here over the holiday week-end, but P. F. Haley, 715 Highland avenue, held the spotlight. Haley shot the season's first hole-in-one at the Westbrook Country club on Saturday. He used a six iron to hole his shot against a strong wind on the 152-yard par 3 No. 15. He finished with a score of 86. Haley's golfing partners were Jock Collins, Westbrook pro, Reed Mull and Bob Stevens.

They visited the set of "Professor Beware!" Lloyd's next picture, and later were entertained on the Paramount lot.

had not been on the hillside where the crime was committed.

Police found clothing belonging to the boy soaking in a pail of water at his home. His mother said she soaked the clothing to remove mud.

The suspect said, however, that he got mud on his clothes while stealing peaches.

Shirley Ann was the daughter of John and Catherine Woodburn. Her father was in the workhouse on an intoxication charge when the crime occurred but was released when his family paid his fine.

Detectives said they found a blood-stain on the woodwork in the suspect's home. It was to be analyzed by chemists. The knife was found in his mother's purse in an overnight bag, which was under a pile of clothing. The knife had one blade, five inches long. The boy denied ownership of the knife, saying it belonged to his step-father.

Five-year-old Arthur Rahn, jr., apparently was the only person who saw Shirley Ann coaxed away from her play. He said his little playmate followed a man who told her they would go to the woods to hunt rabbits.

Arthur was to try to identify the suspect as Shirley's abductor today.

An autopsy showed that the girl swallowed some of the blue mud which was stuffed into her mouth.

Then early today, while G-men worked on the case and throngs of curious milled about this crossroads village of 600, a man presumed to be the abductor slipped the third note under the door of the Cash apartment, tossed a rock at a window to attract attention and fled into the underbrush.

The message, printed on a triangular piece of brown wrapping paper, ordered Cash to repeat maneuvers prescribed in an earlier note—to drive over a route specified on a map, blinking the headlights of his car at certain spots as a signal. Cash had done this in vain last night but the new note was understood to have complained of too many persons about.

The earlier note had been found pinned to the door at the home of the boy's uncle, Wilson P. Cash, next door. The other note figuring in the case was given to a colored man to deliver to James Cash.

Probers Challenge $17,000,000 for Relief

DECLARE FUNDS ASKED BY CITIES ARE EXCESSIVE

House Committee to Submit Findings Wednesday on Needy Aid Inquiry.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The report of the special house committee on urban relief conditions will take issue with the estimates of city officials and the state auditor's office that $17,000,000 is needed to finance relief in Ohio for the rest of the year, it was understood today.

Denying that the committee, composed of a majority of rural members, would ask for an extension of time to continue the inquiry, Rep. A. Lee Fair, D., Holmes, chairman, said the report would be ready for the house Wednesday.

He said the committee was generally agreed that if a continuance is desired, the request should come from the house membership. Whether a resolution proposing an extension of time will be introduced was not known. The committee already has spent two weeks on its study.

Details Kept Secret.

Details of the report were closely guarded and Fair declined to reveal how great an expenditure would be recommended. He said, however, it would be "less" than the $17,000,000 contemplated under the program drafted by Gov. Martin L. Davey and the League of Ohio Municipalities.

Asked if the report would criticize relief administration in northern Ohio cities, particularly Cleveland, Fair replied:

"Only deservingly so."

He said he felt efforts to reduce the 65 per cent requirement for approval of special levies and bond issues for relief purposes would not pass "even if we recommended it." Previously it had been rumored that the committee would suggest dropping their requirement to a mere majority or perhaps 55 per cent majority.

The house was to reconvene today and Speaker Frank R. Uible, Cleveland, anticipated that a bill appropriating $1,000,000 from the general revenue fund for loans to distressed counties might be introduced. The purpose of the measure would be to tide cities over pending completion of a relief program.

CAMPS TO STAY

CCC Continues Two Units in Vicinity for Another Year.

Two state CCC camps in counties adjoining Richland will continue to operate during the coming year, dispatches from Washington said today.

The federal conservation department announced 32 Ohio camps would be continued, the dispatch said. Among them will be the one at Mohican state forest, near Loudonville, Ashland county, and a soil conservation camp in Knox county, near Mt. Vernon. Each camp will have an average enrollment of 200.

A previous order calling for the elimination of three Ohio camps because of lack of funds has been rescinded, the dispatch said, as the result of congressional action appropriating money.

Male Cook Is a Terrible Blight On Humanity and A Trial to All His Pals

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—A picture has been published showing a dozen high school boys in white coats and muffin hats preparing a batch of spaghetti in a school kitchen. This may seem innocent fun, but as one who had experience with amateur male cooks your correspondent desires to sound a warning.

The amateur male cook is a terrible thing. He destroys food, he ruins pots, pans and the digestion of his victims, he spatters mayonnaise, gravy and egg yolk all over the walls and ceiling and worst of all, he bears himself with any insufferable air of modest artistry which never has been called to time until this moment.

Your correspondent has known several amateur male cooks but none more pernicious than Mr. Ik Shuman, one of the editors of the New Yorker, whose weakness comes over him in regular cycles about twice a year, at which time he whips up a something which he calls bouillabaisse.

* * *

At such times, a few days in advance of the acute stage, Mr Shuman's eyes take on a foggy, faraway look; he forgets appointments and wanders off in strange byways of the city, shopping for the ingredients of bouillabaisse. He goes to Greek, Italian, Persian and Egyptian grocery stores, lifting the lids of crocks and pickle barrels and sniffing their contents and thumping strange melons and pinching exotic tomatoes to see if they are prime.

He comes home with his arms full of parcels and with little packets dangling from all his fingers by loops of string, and stores them away in the kitchen. He goes around mumbling jerked phrases about a pinch of saffron, a sprig of upas and a twist of bark from a slippery elm snipped in the dark of the moon. As the point of seizure grows higher he begins to telephone friends that he is about to have bouillabaisse and, having very loyal friends who rally to him in these crises out of respect for the pronounced virtues which he possesses when normal, he generally gets a quorum.

* * *

The last day, of course, is the worst. That day he stays home from work, and Betty takes little Jimmy down to sit all day in the park or in the movies explaining, "daddy is having bouillabaisse; he will be all right tomorrow."

"But what is bouillabaisse?" Jimmy inquires, and Betty says, "you are too young to know dear, and so am I."

* * *

At this time Mr. Shuman is in the kitchen up to his hip pockets in fish heads dried octopi, egg shells, shark fins, turtle giblets, olive oil bottles and dried leaves of various kinds for seasoning, while on the stove there simmers and stews his chef d 'ouevie in the making. Fumes rise and permeate their love-bower, neighbors pack a few things hurriedly and leave the building, and the bubbles, rising higher and richer, splatter bouillabaisse juice on the walls and ceiling.

At evening Betty returns with Jimmy just before the arrival of the guests, who usually include Mr. Jimmy Cagney, the moving picture actor, a friend so true that he has been known to come all the way from Hollywood just to see Mr. Shuman through his hour.

Once the bouillabaisse has been served the tension begins to ease. Mr. Shuman pours a nice wine, and after a few slugs his guests begin to feel no pain and even make passes at the bouillabaisse, like actors eating tiny bits of apple in dinner scenes on the stage.

* * *

The amateur male cook sits back awaiting compliments which are generously paid, to the injury of truth, and after all the guests have said twice around, "no, thank you, no more, but it was delicious," Mr. Shuman begins to recognize familiar scenes and friendly faces.

On the way home the guests stop at some tavern to eat and to Mr. Shuman's proud inquiry, "how was that bouillabaisse, my dove?" Betty answers, in all truth, "never better, my hero, and are you all right now?"

* * *

Mr. Shuman also scrambles eggs and bakes bread, but in fairness to him it should be stated that he never uses underhand tactics, as some amateur male cooks do. When Mr. Shuman is having bouillabaisse he frankly warns his guests of his condition saying, "I am having bouillabaisse Thursday, and I want you to come." Other amateur male cooks are less straightforward.

Your correspondent once knew in Washington a very nice man in all outward respects who said, "you must come up this evening. I am having a surprise."

Suspecting nothing, your correspondent went, and after the host had hidden his hat and coat the host said, with that strange look in his eyes, "I'll bet you don't know what the surprise is."

"No," said your correspondent. "Tell me."

"Baked beans," he said, with a note of leering triumph. "I cooked them myself.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It was some time before the question of "poison stars" had been thrust into the limelight by some undisciplined eastern exhibitors, so Michael Curtiz couldn't have meant anything personal by it. He was just talking along, as directors will do sometimes.

His theme was new faces. Pictures were going to get into trouble for lack of them. Studios were clinging to established stars too long. It was too tempting just to cast some player with a big name, even when the big name was getting a little old, or stiff, or swell-headed, or temperamental Pictures needed fresh, young, ambitious faces.

* * *

Some time later, on the set of "Sister Act," Mike seemed to have done something about his previous theme song. He had 27-year-old Jeffrey Lynn on tap as a new star. He said, in Mike's way:

"Lynn will act this part better than Irrl Flynn. But Flynn didn't get back from his yacht trip in time. Flynn makes a mistake. He should have come back like we expected him to. Now Jeffrey Lynn takes the part and it's a lovely opportunity for the right boy. Jeffrey goes to town. He is making all four girls fall in love with him at the same time and he does it so natural that all the girls in the country will be doing the same thing when they see Jeffrey on the screen. So now, because Irrl doesn't get back from his vacation when we look for him, and because boys like Bob Taylor and Tyrone Power are busy, we go ahead like we should do and find a new star for ourselves. . . . "

Mike also has in his new picture the scarcely film-known Gale Page, three Lanes—Lola, Rosemary, and Priscilla—and Jules Garfield, 25, well known on the Broadway stage but new to pictures. Claude Rains and Dick Foran are others.

And wouldn't it be funny if some exhibitors saw the finished picture, liked it, and then began to howl because it hasn't any "real marquee names?"

* * *

And wouldn't it be funny—ha, ha!—if Jeffrey Lynn clicked colossally, became an exhibitors' darling for a while, got into the big salary class—and then, one fine day, found himself called "poison" because he'd had the misfortune to be cast in several poor pictures?

All the studios are trying to develop new stars, have been trying for years They would like to save those big salaries they're paying to the "names"—but they don't dare. As long as even the alleged 'poison stars" draw better than nameless unknowns, however good, they'll keep on paying for names.

Not That It Matters

We've Got a Depression, But Our Attitude Toward It Won't Help Chase It

—By JANE WILLIAMS

AT A MEETING this week Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said Mansfield was suffering from a "psychological depression" which greatly magnified our actual economic depression.

He's right. And it's one of those things that can do an incalculable amount of damage to a town if it isn't checked. It's as contagious as smallpox and spreads as quickly.

Business IS in a bad way; unemployment is probably as high as it has ever been in Mansfield; one out of every eight persons is on relief; WPA rolls are higher than ever before; a number of families have been forced to a lower standard of living. BUT - - -

So far as I know, there isn't an industrial plant that's closed down; very few concerns have reduced the basic pay of their employes; Mansfield relief situation has never been out of control, hundreds of men who might be on relief lists are working on WPA because Mansfield can afford to spend money to meet WPA requirements.

Our schools have never lost a day because of a shortage of funds; there has been no curtailment in public service departments; our library service and our welfare agencies are functioning full time. There are two million more dollars on deposit in Mansfield banks than last year.

* * *

BUT in spite of all these benefits, we've convinced ourselves that we're headed straight for the poor house, individually and collectively. We have dark doubts of the future (and goodness knows there's reason for them) but the present should be permitted to stand on its own merits.

Our community pessimism, or "psychological depression" is giving us a reputation of being hard hit. In another town over last week-end I had occasion to deny five times that Westinghouse was "closed tighter than a clam." They looked unbelieving when I insisted that there are still 2,800 workers on the Westinghouse employment rolls, 2,400 of whom are actually working, including the office force. I denied that the steel plant was for rent, that many businesses were on the verge of bankruptcy.

But after awhile our reputation "abroad" began to have its effect, and before my visit was over, I commenced to worry for fear the sheriff would have his sign on my home by the time I got back.

That's the way a "psychological depression" grows and grows and spreads beyond the confines of the city itself.

There ought to be a law against pessimism.

* * *

THERE is a possibility that the much discussed—and cussed—picture "Birth of a Baby" may be shown in Mansfield since it was produced by the Skirballs who are lessors of the Madison theater.

Contrary to the opinion of the First Lady of the Land I believe there are reasons why the picture should not be shown in an amusement house. If it is to be shown at all in public gatherings it should be shown in such places as high school auditoriums as an educational feature and then to limited age groups only, with possibly one night for mothers and daughters and another night for fathers and sons.

Somehow, I can't seem to get enthusiastic about seeing the details of the birth of a baby, on the same program with a Mickey Mouse cartoon and a Ritz Brothers comedy.

* * *

THE paragraph in this corner last week about the spending of $50,000 on the city airport was a gross understatement. I have been informed by a former councilman. More than $150,000 has been spent on it. Council first appropriated $15,000 to buy the 189 acres and a year or so later appropriated another $10,000 and again $200. Merchants and public spirited citizens still squirm a little when they remember that they contributed another $16,000. Reformatory inmates worked on it for days—and that, I was told, was free. Government funds to the tune of more than $80,000 went into it at one time, and there were other grants bringing the total to more than $150,000.

And, being a stubborn wench, I still say it is little more than a nice green pasture with a creditable hangar which is privately owned. Citizens who have expressed themselves to this column are pretty vehement about not putting any more money into it until there is some assurance that we'll have something to show for it.

The fact of the matter is that a manager should be appointed for the airport and an annual appropriation made to maintain it and keep it up before any more large lump sums are granted.

Religious Groups' Stand On Lottery Law Repeal Raises Query On Motive

As to that, however, an official authority of the internal revenue bureau in New York has given an opinion that they do.

I argue with complete freedom from religious feeling or prejudice that opposition by religious bodies to repeal of the anti-lottery section is an attempt to interfere with a legislative proposal intended to confer great benefit on the state and its people, including many of no religious attachment

New Deal to Press New Tax Revision Drive

NEXT CONGRESS TO GET DEMAND FOR 'REMEDIES'

Treasury Wants Federal Laws Re-Written; Plan Would Open Business Fight Again.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The treasury disclosed today that the administration would ask the next congress to overhaul the federal tax laws completely, codifying and simplifying them as well as incorporating business levies favored by President Roosevelt.

A spokesman said the department wanted the laws rewritten to make them easier for taxpayers to understand and for officials to administer.

Mr. Roosevelt hinted at a sweeping revision in his Arthurdale, W. Va. address yesterday, criticizing the versions of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes included in the tax bill enacted at this session.

Would Reopen Fight.

He left little doubt he would ask revision of these business levies at the next session—thus reopening his battle with business over them—when he announced he would let the tax bill become law without signing it.

"By so doing," he said, "I call the definite attention of the American people to unwise parts of the bill."

The president was understood to have three major tax objectives:

1. Reinforcement of the undistributed profits tax to make it unprofitable for large corporations to withhold dividends in order to reduce income taxes of their large stockholders.

2. Revision of the tax on capital gains to apply graduated rates according to the amount of capital gains. Capital gains are the profits realized from purchase and subsequent sale of such things as securities and real estate.

3. Removal of income tax exemptions from future federal, state and local securities and salaries.

The new tax bill, intended to raise more than five billion dollars, became law last midnight without the president's signature upon expiration of the 10-day period in which he must sign or veto a measure approved by congress.

Mr. Roosevelt explained to his Arthurdale audience of high school students that he did not veto the bill because "this would prevent many desirable features of it from going into effect."

DE VALERA CALLS EIRE ELECTION

Prime Minister's One-Vote Parliamentary Defeat Was First Since 1932.

(By United Press)

DUBLIN — Prime Minister De Valera dissolved the lower house of parliament (dail eireann) today and called for a general election June 17 because of a one-vote parliamentary defeat, his first since 1932.

De Valera announced that he would start the election campaign, first since the free state became Eire or Ireland, in Monaghan county tomorrow.

The house Wednesday night defeated the government 51 to 50 by adopting a motion of William T. Cosgrave, leader of the United Ireland party, to establish an arbitration board to which civil servants might submit grievances.

Standing of parties in the lower house was: De Valera's Fianna Fail party 67 seats, United Ireland 48, Labor 13 and Independents 8. Thus the combined opposition could defeat De Valera at any time.

"The government with a precarious parliamentary majority constantly at the mercy of group combinations in support of sectional interests can not do the nation's work as it should be done," said De Valera in ordering the dissolution.

DAVEY CALLS BOOERS, HECKLERS PART OF LEWIS' ORGANIZATION

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO — Gov. Martin L. Davey, booed and heckled by a group of listeners at a campaign rally last night, said "that's part of John Lewis' organization (CIO) —They're sore because we demand law and order in Ohio."

The governor's appearance at the civic auditorium for an address in his campaign for re-election evoked both cheers and boos.

His opening words were drowned by a 15-minute demonstration from a portion of the audience. A score of policemen and detectives aided the governor's escort in quelling the disturbance.

The executive called for a salute to the flag in an effort to restore order, then challenged the noise-makers to "come down and face the crowd." No one responded.

"At the August primaries we're going to drive John Lewis out of Ohio," the governor asserted. He repeatedly referred in his speech to the unfriendly receptionists who observers said were CIO members.

At one point, despite the presence of police, boos halted the address when the governor said Ohio's old age pension plan had eliminated the path to the poorhouse.

He said his administration was in sympathy with the economic situation confronting Ohio's industrial centers, where unemployment is greatest.

"We are trying with all our might and main to get legislation through to meet the problem adequately," Davey said.

Currently there is $55,000,000 in the state treasury to finance unemployment insurance, he added, estimating this sum would care for "200,000 breadwinners for 15 months."

Protest Brings Removal Order For 20 Mail Boxes.

More than 20 families in northeast Mansfield who for several years had postal carrier service today faced the alternative of relocating their mail boxes or having to use general delivery.

The families all reside just outside the corporation line but have been served by city carrier, having placed mail boxes at Central avenue and Grace streets inside the city.

They were given notice by the city today that the boxes must be removed by June 25. Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styer said the city acted after postal authorities reported that residents in front of whose property the boxes had been placed, had asked that they be removed.

Postmaster Herman E. Homberger explained that the complaint had been referred to the city since the boxes were on city property.

You just can't lift an automobile with a bottle capper, Joan M[illegible] and Marge Turner of Glessner avenue have decided. Admitting they don't know the first thing about automobile accessories, the two girls after encountering a flat tire while riding recently, tried to lift the car with what looked to them like a jack but in reality was a bottle capper. They gave it up as a bad job after two hours and didn't know their mistake until help arrived.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, a methodical man, has developed a plan of avoiding the hot sun when he mows his lawn. He cuts it after dark—long after the sun has gone down. Lots of us might try the same thing if Rev. An air mail route between Mansfield and Cleveland would save Uncle Sam's postoffice department a lot of embarrassment, thinks Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman, who cited an example that came to his attention this morning. A letter bearing air mail and special delivery stamps, mailed at Cleveland yesterday afternoon, reached the county jail a few minutes after the regular morning delivery today. "Without the special stamps the letter probably would have been here sooner," Freeman contends.

U. S. COURT TO GET BONDS OF MOTOR 'KINGS'

Ford, Chrysler, Sloan To Be Taken Into 'Custody' In Auto Finance Cases.

(By United Press)

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — United States District Attorney James P. Fleming announced today that federal authorities would "take into custody" Edsel Ford, Walter P. Chrysler, Alfred P. Sloan, William Knudsen and 46 other top executives of automobile and automobile finance corporations. They all are under indictment here charged with violating the anti-trust laws.

The taking into custody was expected to be nominal only. Ford, Chrysler, Sloan, Knudsen and the others will appear with their lawyers before United States commissioners, probably today, it was believed, and post bonds guaranteeing their appearance in federal court here for trial.

Trials Late In Summer.

Fleming announced that they and their corporations and corporations affiliated with them, would be tried late this summer or early in the fall.

The indictments charged that they had conspired to promote a monopoly and thereby caused irreparable damage to independent automobile finance companies. In addition to the individuals, the indictments named the Ford Motor company, the Chrysler corporation, the General Motors corporations, and 32 subsidiaries and affiliated finance companies.

The indictments were returned late yesterday by the federal grand jury. They charged that the companies had violated section one of the Sherman anti-trust act by coercing dealers to finance automobile sales — a business which represents an annual monetary exchange of $1,700,000,000—through the companies' own finance companies.

Specifically, the indictments charge that the manufacturers, finance companies and their executives exercise a monopoly in the business of financing the trade and commerce in automobiles.

It was the government's second attempt to obtain indictments. A grand jury considered similar evidence at Milwaukee but was dismissed by a federal court action.

SATURDAY, MAY 28, 1938

Drive carefully tomorrow and Monday—a double holiday doubles the danger.

"Everybody's doing it" is seldom given as the reason for an act of which conscience approves.

Given five million dollars to count the jobless, Mr. Biggers completed the work for two million dollars and turned back the remaining three million—being a business man instead of a politician.

A Day for Memories and Resolve.

ORIGINALLY intended as a day for commemorating Union soldiers who lost their lives in the war between the states, Memorial day is now observed each May 30, in northern states, as an occasion on which tribute is paid to soldiers of all wars, evidenced by placing flowers of remembrance on the graves of those who served their country in time of conflict.

In the southern states a day is set aside for similar commemoration of Confederate soldiers who lost their lives during the Civil war or who have since passed from earth.

The war between the states is presented in histories as having "freed the slaves" and "preserved the Union," yet, as viewed in retrospect, it may be wondered if both purposes could not have been better achieved by peaceful means and without the frightful cost in lives, suffering and destruction.

War has seldom, if ever, settled basic, underlying problems. The economic and social effects of slavery were not ended by the Civil war. Rather they were deepened and intensified, so that many of their manifestations remain troublesome today. Nor were world problems settled by the World war.

Perhaps the soldier dead would tell us, if they could, that there are important things still to be done in their honor after fresh flowers and flags have been placed on their graves. There are living wounds of misunderstanding and injustice still to be soothed and healed. There are eager, earnest youths to be saved from the horrors and brutality of war.

Mingled with the loving remembrance of those valiant Americans who fought in blue and gray and khaki, there is a feeling that the time is at hand when there should be less glorification of war and more concentration of thought on finding better ways to solve future differences which might lead to conflict.

Helen Hayden's Life of Service.

WHEN there is a feeling of discouragement or gloom, when it seems that human selfishness is marching on toward a new high—it is a comforting thought that God places on earth some such people as Helen Hayden and that while these influences are at work in this and other communities there is justification for optimism as to the future, and for a belief that the world is growing better.

Mansfield is fortunate in having been the scene of the long-time humanitarian activity of Miss Hayden—a work of loving service that was of immeasurable value to the community as well as to the families and the individuals among whom she ministered.

If one could vision a community, or a nation, in which each person performed his or her part with the same tireless energy and unselfish devotion to duty as did Miss Hayden, therein would also be found a perfect solution to all of today's vexing human problems.

Except for a sense of loss, and regret that her period of fine service in this community is at an end, the passing of Miss Hayden is not an occasion for sorrow. From a life such as hers the transition from the physical to the spiritual can be no more than the parting of a veil—her life on earth was a preparation for life eternal.

Without the President's Signature.

BY PERMITTING the tax-revision bill, as passed by congress, to become a law without his signature, President Roosevelt departs, for the first time, from his practice of either signing or vetoing federal legislative acts.

In announcing his decision to allow the bill automatically to become a law without his signature, President Roosevelt expressed disapproval of certain phases of the measure, principal objection being to drastic modification of the capital gains tax and the New Deal's undistributed profits tax, which have been regarded as seriously hampering capital investment in industry and business and making the development of small enterprises practically impossible.

In amplifying his points of objection the President contended that parts of the bill "may restore in the future certain forms of tax avoidance, and of concentrated investment power, which we had begun to end . . ."

Judged by experiences of this most recent depression period, policies of New Deal taxation had also "begun to end" inducements toward business investments of any kind and had discouraged the private enterprise that previously provided remunerative employment for additional millions of workers.

While the new tax law is not all that could be desired in the way of revision, its modifications may be expected to lighten the burden, to some extent, on small businesses and to establish a basis upon which industry, and business in general, can proceed during the next year.

Objection of President Roosevelt to some portions of the law will impress many as arguing strongly for the merits of those provisions.

A Blind Man Sees the World.

AN ITEM from New York tells of many marvelous things a 65-year-old blind man "saw" on a 39,000-mile trip around the world.

His daughter served as his "eyes" on the voyage. "One of the most beautiful cities I have ever seen is Sydney, Australia," he said.

Now this blind man, a German manufacturer, wants to tour America—and he'll probably "see" more than some of the more fortunate travelers who "have eyes but see not."

Information that Michigan plans to promote the cultivation of nuts naturally raises a question.

As the lisping college boy remarked, after hitch-hiking his way home, "Thumb trip."

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—If you know a Civil war veteran sunning himself on the front porch, persuade him to take you on a 10-day or two-week vacation to Gettysburg—and the government will pay all expenses.

The offer is open not only to Union veterans but to Confederate veterans as well.

The offer may sound fantastic but a fact is a fact and here is the situation. July 1 to 3 is the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, the so-called "highwater mark of the Confederacy." On that memorable occasion General Meade outfought General Lee. (We are accepting our school history on this. We have no dispute with southerners who claim otherwise. And anyway, Meade did so poorly on the pursuit after the battle that even Lincoln had to chide him a bit.)

As part of the celebration the government is inviting veterans of both sides to come to Gettysburg from June 29 to July 6. Each is to bring an attendant and the government provides railroad transportation for both, as well as $6 a day each for expenses.

* * *

The Thinning Ranks.

A GLANCE at statistics would indicate that it may be the last of the very few times Confederate and Union soldiers ever have mingled freely together. The army, which is in charge of the party, estimates the average age of the veterans as 94 years. One of the provisions in the invitation is that if a veteran is taken ill on the road a doctor will be paid by the government for caring for him.

There are approximately 10,000 surviving veterans, North and South, and the army expects 5,000 will attend. Any Civil war veteran is eligible, whether he served only a few hours in either army or years. To date less than 2,000 have accepted invitations.

Some of the veterans indicate they haven't cooled off much in the past 75 years. One Union veteran said he would come only if he was assured no confederate flag would be flown.

One cocky old lad of 117 winters said he was chipper and eager and would bring his youngest son, 54, as attendant. His eldest son, 94, is too feeble.

* * *

Quiet Reigns There Now.

GETTYSBURG is sacred ground, made so as much by Lincoln's historic speech as by the battle that marked the first real setback by the Southern forces. At that time the Confederates had swept far north of Washington and were invading Pennsylvania.

From a military standpoint, Gettysburg was a beautiful place for a battle, with the opposing forces ranged on high ground facing each other across a valley that at one place was only a few yards across. The old soldiers who knew Gettysburg will find the place not greatly changed. Some trees have grown, and perhaps some bushes. A cathedral quiet about the place impresses even casual tourists.

So elderly are the surviving veterans that it seems likely some who come will not live to get back. The army has made preparations to send home those who die these many years after the battle.

Decline In Prices Causing Unrest

—By LESLIE EICHEL

IF YOU WOULD ask a political economist what is causing the present renewed unrest in the world, he probably would answer, "Price readjustments."

Every country in the world is feeling it.

The commodity price index in the United States has gone down 10 points already this year. It is 35 per cent under 1937, 40 per cent under 1936. That is a severe readjustment. But some other countries have had it worse—countries that are not wealthy enough to "stabilize" farm prices with huge grants.

This readjustment may become increasingly severe during the next several months. Then, when prices seem to have reached a "natural" level, buying will make its appearance on an ever-increasing scale—and this will lead us out of the depression, so we are told.

But without a remedy.

* * *

EVER A SOLUTION?

Will there ever be a solution? Countries with all forms of government suffer—the richest and the poorest. Yet the solution does not lie in politico-economic reform, many of those who have made a study insist.

A "clearing of the political skies" would in no manner halt the present decline in commodity prices. In fact, a "clearing" might accelerate the decline—for there would be no unnatural demand.

Thus, that "solution" so often and easily given is no solution.

Political skies will not clear. They depend upon the socio-economic storms. And those storms will not subside until man recognizes them as something which he cannot dismiss with characteristic phrases, angry mutterings and wars.

* * *

LEFTIST TREND?

Many businessmen look for a reaction toward conservatism in the next elections. That, however, rarely is the case when prices decline.

Take a look at farm prices—down 22 per cent from last year. Now take a look at labor—see the millions jobless. Those two factors mean a trend to the left in elections.

Businessmen will point to the defeat of CIO candidates in the Pennsylvania primary. But it seems phenomenal that an organization which was not even an entity two years ago polled half a million votes in a state that has been traditionally conservative. And a CIO man won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Oregon. And it must not be forgotten that labor elected the present mayor of New York, with an imposing bloc of votes.

* * *

LEWIS GAINING

John L. Lewis never may gain political office for himself—he probably never will try—but he is certain to become an increasing factor in American political life. For one thing, the Democrats will not be able to carry the northern industrial states without CIO aid.

Lewis may play a wise game and indorse a Republican—a progressive Republican—over a Democrat in some states. He could do that in Wisconsin, or a northwestern wheat state, or even in Jersey City, where Boss Hague rules tagged as a Democrat.

* * *

WAR?

Will there be war in Europe? Ask American wheat exporters. They will say no. No European country is stocking up with wheat supplies. Even with drouth causing wheat shortages in Europe—a serious situation in Italy, for example—there has been a light export movement.

Health Advice

Check Up on Health of Pupils.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

MORE than one million school children in the city of New York recently observed Health day. A day was set aside for teachers to stress the importance of health. That was a valuable school day.

In addition to teaching the advantages of following sensible health rules, various tests were made. The pupils were examined for defects in vision, hearing, height, weight, posture, etc. In this manner may minor defects that would otherwise have been overlooked were detected. The parents of each child in need of attention were sent a report telling the need of medical and dental treatment.

This procedure, if generally used, is capable of curbing many ailments and defects of childhood. It will help improve the general welfare of our school children. Such a health day might well be set aside in every school. The defects of early childhood grow into disabilities which serve as stumbling blocks in later life.

Young children should be examined periodically. Definite efforts should be made to determine whether they are properly nourished and are obtaining sufficient sleep and relaxation. Personal hygiene and sanitation must be stressed

In the larger schools, pupils who are found to suffer from permanent defects should be assigned to special classes. But surely, if possible the defects should be corrected so that the child may make the normal progress in school. In any event, if a defect or disability is found, it should not be neglected.

All school authorities agree that many of the children who appear backward in their school work are usually those who suffer physical defects. It can be readily seen that if a child has poor vision or impaired hearing, it would be difficult for him to make the expected progress in his school work. Obviously the underweight and nervous child will be subject to many disorders which will cause frequent absence from school and failure to progress.

Prevention Best.

For years the medical profession has stressed the importance of the periodic health examinations which I have frequently mentioned. It is through the discoveries made in such examinations that certain chronic disorders can be prevented. These periodic visits to the doctor are highly recommended, not only for the school child but for the adult as well.

If you and your children have not recently consulted the doctor, now is the time to take inventory of the health of your family. Do not overlook the importance of this matter. It is far better to guard against disease rather than to await it and then attempt the cure.

Peace Altars

(A Memorial Day Poem)

Upon desecrated altars
Of man's broken vows to God;
High upon the mountain-tops,
And paths our weary feet have trod:
Shall be built the great, eternal fires
Cleaving the sky like mighty spires;
Then every knee
Will bow in shame,
And every tongue
Will speak His name—
The world shall then know peace.

Upon desecrated altars
Of man's broken vows to man;
There upon yon soldier's tomb—
There where helpless children slain;
High—white leaping flames shall rise
From lowly earth, toward the skies;
A symbol of
God's majesty;
Then wars shall cease
And man be free;
His tears—forever dried.

What's Happened?

A Week-End Summary of Current Events.

YOUR "News I. Q." will be pretty high, as regards recent Washington developments, if you know these answers:

Wage-Hour Bill.

What would the wage-hour bill passed (314 to 97) by the House of Representatives this week do?

Establish a graduated minimum wage for interstate industry, starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents after three years, and a work-week maximum starting at 44 hours and dropping to 40 hours in two years.

Does this differ from the bill passed previously by the senate?

Yes. Instead of imposing universal rules, the senate bill empowered an administrative board to fix minimum wages of not more than 40 cents an hour and a maximum work week of 40 or more hours.

What did opponents led by Georgia's Representative Ramspeck want?

Substitution of a plan that would empower a board to grant exemptions and permit variations in some industries or geographical areas. The house rejected Ramspeck's plan (139 to 70.)

Spend-Lend Bill.

Did the senate appropriations committee change the relief and public works bill passed by the house?

Yes. It increased the total to $3,247,000,000. It included $212,000,000 for benefit payments to farmers. And it placed restrictions on PWA lending to publicly owned utilities competing with private firms.

Did New Dealers like the PWA restrictions?

Administration forces lined up in the senate this week in an effort to oppose restraints on utility project financing.

What about the farm payments?

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and others urged new taxes to provide for any increase in benefit payments.

What did Republicans urge?

Michigan's Senator Vandenberg (who said WPA Admininstrator Hopkins "has intoxicated himself with too much power") wanted the bill amended to provide for grants-in-aid to the states. Massachusetts' Senator Lodge proposed elimination of the PWA appropriation and addition of $800,000,000 to the work relief fund.

TVA Inquiry.

Why did President Roosevelt oust Arthur E. Morgan from TVA'S chairmanship last March?

The President said Morgan attacked fellow directors without justification, obstructed TVA work and refused to submit "facts."

What did Arthur E. Morgan tell congressional investigators when hearings began Wednesday?

That Directors H. A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal were responsible for inaccurate statements, mismanagement and improper accounting. Branding the "TVA yardstick" dishonest, he said his associates had fostered animosity against utilities and tried to make things easy for Senator Berry when the latter sought damages from TVA for submerged marble land.

Did he say the directors took bribes or stole?

No. "There are other and more subtle forms of failure to meet a public trust," he declared.

What was H. A. Morgan's reply?

He repeated his and Lilienthal's previous charges that Arthur Morgan had "obstructed and interfered with the board's efforts to carry out the directions of congress."

How are TVA negotiations to buy out private utilities coming?

Some deals have been practically completed, others are progressing, Director Lilienthal reported after lunching at the White House. Purchase of the companies, he added, may end some of the litigation challenging the constitutionality of TVA.

* * *

Facing Phosphate Facts.

Phosphorus is useful both in saving and destroying life. President Roosevelt recently stressed its importance in soil conservation and urged congress to formulate a policy for protecting and developing America's supply. Other Washingtonians pointed out this week that phosphorus is used in making bombs, too. And Idaho's Senator King sought a joint congressional investigation of the "adequacy and use" of U. S. phosphate resources.

At Home

Supreme Court Doings.

The court upheld your governmental uncle's right to tax tickets to state university sports events, because—Justice Roberts said—the states' immunity from federal taxation doesn't "extend to business enterprises."

Justices Butler and McReynolds dissented in both cases. Justice Black, while siding with the majority, opined the court should reexamine the whole subject of intergovernmental tax immunity.

NLRB orders to Remington Rand, Inc., the Black Diamond Steamship Co., and the Onalaska, Wash., Carlisle Lumber Co., to reinstate strikers were left in effect by the court.

* * *

Primary Developments.

In this month's final primary, in Oregon, Democrats nominated Henry L. Hess and Republicans named Charles A. Sprague for governor. Organized labor backed Hess in a close race against Gov. Charles H. Martin. Sprague made a conservative campaign.

QUOTES

Prof. E. A. Hooton, Harvard anthropologist: "Let us stop deluding ourselves with the fatuous notion that morality can be massaged into morons and intelligence into idiots. For true intelligence is inbred."

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state: "The cause of world peace, and the fundamental objective in our foreign policy, of keeping our own country at peace, are not furthered by our participation in international polemics and recriminations over internal policies of other nations."

For U. S. Senator, Democrats chose Willis Mahoney, liberal ex-mayor of Klamath Falls, and Republicans named Rufus C. Holman, conservative state treasurer.

Elsewhere there was much buzzing this week. For instance:

John L. Lewis endorsed Sen. Alben W. Barkley who is running against Gov. A. B. Chandler for the Kentucky Democratic senatorial nomination. And Chandler's campaign chairman charged WPA was helping Barkley.

WPA Administrator Hopkins was said to favor Rep. Otha Wearin, who is running against Sen. Guy M. Gillette for the Iowa Democratic senatorial nomination, and Montana's Sen. Burton K. Wheeler and others objected vigorously.

* * *

State Spending.

State legislatures meeting this year have been concerned principally with relief and social welfare bills. Illinois solons helped Chicago care for the needy by passing an emergency appropriation this week that increased state aid.

* * *

Oil Offer.

Attorney General Cummings announced some of the oil companies and officials indicted at Madison, Wis., on anti-trust law charges had decided to pay fines and court costs (totaling about $400,000) rather than stand trial.

People

Secretary Ickes Marries.

Employes of the U. S. Interior Department's press section supposed Tuesday that their boss, Secretary Harold L. Ickes, 64, was in his office as usual.

Instead, he was in Ireland. And, to the astonishment of some of Washington's very best gossips, he was marrying a pretty, red-headed Milwaukee miss, Jane Dahlman, 25, niece of John Cudahy, U. S. minister to Dublin. They had met, friends said, at the White House. The first Mrs. Ickes was killed in an automobile accident in 1935.

* * *

The British Way.

Nervous, silver-haired Viscount Nuffield, Britain's "Henry Ford," has given away nearly $100,000,000 since his bicycle shop grew into the big Morris Motor Co., at Oxford, Eng.

While the company band was practicing Tuesday night, the viscount stepped out of his office and asked the musicians, "Well, boys, what do you think of it? Two men have just tried to kidnap me."

Police had been called by a friend in a nearby office who overheard the men's voices. One suspect was caught and charged with having firearms and bad intentions.

Religion

Presbyterian Affairs.

Both branches of the Presbyterian church held their general assemblies this week, the southern in Meridian, Miss., the northern in Philadelphia.

The southern church modified two sections of its confession of faith to eliminate words concerning Roman Catholics, declined to re-enter the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and discussed reunion with the northern branch.

The northern Presbyterians broke precedent by inviting Methodists, Baptists, Lutherans, Episcopalians, Moravians and others to join in celebrating John Wesley's bicentenary.
